

Kaylan Coke Interns in Dr. Wnuk's Lab

Kaylan was also able to attend an Organic Chemistry lecture, Dr. Wnuk's group meeting and share in camaraderie with the rest of the graduate and undergraduate students and postdoctoral fellow, shown below.
